Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Design of a Steel Grand Stand: Thesis An all steel grand-stand is chosen because, for many reasons, it is preferable to reinforced concrete. At this point all materials must be shipped in for either kind of structure and freight charges on steel will be less than on materials for reinforced concrete. Therefore, local conditions favor the erection of a steel structure. In the majority of cases a steel grand-stand will be better because (1) it is easier to erect, (2) its first cost is less, (5) it permits of more adequate inspection both during and after construction.
