Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Letters and Correspondence of John Henry Newman, During His Life in the English Church: II He has been so very dear to me [writes Newman], that it is an effort to me to reflect on my own thoughts about him. I can never have a greater loss, looking on the whole of my life. I never, on the whole, fell in with so gifted a person. In variety and perfection of gifts he far exceeded even Keble. The year 1836 seems to have been a momentous one in Newman's life, and not alone for the loss of Froude, nor even for that of his mother, which followed closely on it. He himself tabulates nine important events of this year, bracketing them together under the heading: A New Scene Opens. Amongst these we note, My Knowing and Using the Breviary; and again, My Writing against the Church of Rome. Although he had good cause for dejection at this time, it is in this year that he writes to his sister, he is so full of work that he has little time for sadness. He owns to feeling solitary, but adds: I never feel so near heaven as then. I am not more lonely than I have been for a long while. God intends me to be lonely; He has so framed my mind that I am in a great measure beyond the sympathy of other people, and thrown upon Himself.
