

A Geography of Saratoga County, State of New York (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Adelbert a Lavery

Forgotten Books, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from A Geography of Saratoga County, State of New York Now we will go with one of these parties which has come down the Mohawk to the mouth of Alphlats - or Eel Place Creek - so named from the number of eels found there. Their canoes were made from white birch bark, bound over a frame and held together by strips of deer skin, and made water tight by filling the holes with Spruce gum. Each Indian wore moccasins, had a blanket, hatchet, knife, bow and arrows, and a spear for spearing fish. After paddling up this stream as far as they could they would carry their canoes to Ballston Lake, then down this and its outlet to about East Line, when they would carry their canoes again and this time to the Mourning Kill. (see Galway.) Then they could paddle all the way to Saratoga Lake, thru Fish Kill to the Hudson river, where they could hunt, or by going farther north could find their enemies. Sometimes they Went down the Mohawk to just below Crescent, in the town of...
