Excerpt: this poor convicted sinner-- Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. He did the work; nothing is left for the sinner to do. The jailor believed, and rejoiced in the Lord, with all his house. Reader, are you converted? Have you experienced this mighty change 1 Perhaps you say, I am afraid not; but I am very desirous of salvation, and am longing to know what I must do to be saved. Oh, let this narrative teach you that it is by faith and not by works that a man is justified. What had the jailor to show in the way of works? Nothing; but he believed, and was saved, and justified. So may you be saved while reading this, if you will but let go the doing, and believe instead. Works will follow conversion, but they can never precede it. Life must first be imparted before there can be any manifestation of life. Don t expect fruits that are pleasing to God until the tree itself is made good. Believe and live. Then the fruits and the works will surely follow, as they did in the jailor s case. No man was ever saved by works; yet none has ever been saved without works; there cannot be life in a soul without that life being manifested. Even in the case of the dying thief it was so; for faith wrought in him to the acknowledgment of the kingship of...
