With a grateful heart I thank and praise the Lord that I have been accounted worthy, and have received the appointment, to succeed President Hyrum M. Smith as president of the European mission and editor and publisher of the Millennial Star, and that I, with those who accompanied me, have been preserved in our travels to this land. Smith, and others residing there, also by the conference presidents of the British mission, all of whom were on hand to greet us, was most cordial and affectionate. The opportunity of meeting the conference presidents and local saints in the several meetings and socials, held during the past few days, and our brief, but happy, associations with President Smith and family before their departure for their home in Zion, are greatly appreciated, and are a splendid introduction to my mission.
