Barbara Raue, a wife, mother and grandmother, is an avid reader and writer. She has researched and compiled several family histories. In 2010, Barbara published her book Coins of Gold, which celebrates the courageous life of her mother, May Todd. Barbaras second book is a historical fiction Arrows, Indians and Love which takes place in Boonesborough, Kentucky during the time of Daniel Boone. Barbara published her third book, The Life and Times of Barbara and completed nine volumes in that series, namely, Inventions, Entertainment, East Coast Trips, Olympics, Wonders of the World, Caribbean Cruises, Animals, Storms and Other Major Disasters in My Lifetime, and Wars, Terrorist Attacks and Major Disasters of the 20th and 21st centuries. In 2013, Barbara published The Cromwell Family Book. Her second novel followed the next year, Laura Secord Discovered. Her memoir, Daddy Where Are You was published in 2015. Three novels in the Montana Series are in progress. Barbara is pursuing her interest in photography and architecture with a desire to Save Our History One Photo at a Time by preserving a record through photos of old buildings from the 1800s and 1900s with their unique architecture. The center gable Gothic cottage is the most popular house style in Ontario in the 19th century with variations in brick, stone and wood. In many towns, there is the desire to preserve some of our architectural heritage. Books 125 to 127 are on Woodstock. Book 127 covers Hunter, Vansittart, Chapel, Simcoe, and King Streets, to name a few. An appendix describes the architectural styles and terms found in the buildings in the town.
