Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from An Inaugural Discourse, on the Policy of Establishing a School of Medicine in the City of Memphis, Tennessee WE know not in what light the present occasion is regarded by the citizens of Memphis, but judging from what we know of the sentiments usually entertained in other cities, under similar circumstances, it appears to us it should be looked upon as amongst the most interesting and important events that have chequered and illustrated the history of this enterprising and flourishing community. Volunteering an interpretation of your sentiments and feelings, which your future conduct, we are persuaded, will fully ratify and confirm, it would be doing ourself injustice not to admit, that having been singled out from such men as are our colleagues to officiate on this occasion, is esteemed a signal if not an undeserved honor. That we have been thought worthy to be the organ of individuals so worthy of your esteem and confidence is gratifying to our pride, but that the humble individual who now addresses you, should have been selected to represent them at the foundation of an Institution to be dedicated to medical education, is in no ordinary degree flattering.
