So what we are finding is our equipment is being worn out in those harsh conditions, and the extreme usage of that forward deployed, our home station readiness is, as I said in my statement, is suffering. We are running roughly about 60 percent of the supply readiness - in other words 60 percent at home of what we should we have. That that is home is in good shape, but there is just less of it to spread around for training and less of it to go to another contin-gency. So that pressurizes what we call our procurement accounts - in other words the ability for the procurement side of the Marine Corps to say, okay, we need to modernize. Let us invest into this. That pot of money is decreasing remarkably, and so we have less discretion to be able to buy those kinds of things to modernize the Marine Corps. So we find ourselves doing what our nation wants us to do, al-most wearing out our equipment back home to a point where we are not completely convinced we are going to be able to modernize it without the help of Congress. RTIZ Mr. O. General Chandler. HANDLER General C. Sir, you know that in our base budget we funded weapons systems support at 65 percent. We certainly appre-ciate your support for the OCO increase that allows us to get to approximately 82 percent. That is why our number one unfunded priority in the Air Force is weapons...
