GUSTAVUS FRANKLIN SWIFT, 1839-1903 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Gustavus Franklin Swift, 1839-1903 The success achieved was such that Mr. Swift became more and more determined that the eastern market must be supplied the whole year round, spring, summer, and autumn, as well as winter. This was to be the work of the refrigerator car, upon which his mind had been fixed from the beginning. The devising of that car dated back more than ten years. It had not been entirely successful. From year to year it had been improved but was still far from the perfection it has since attained. Other packers were studying it with interest, but perhaps Mr. Swift's mind comprehended its vast potentialities a little sooner than did the minds of other men. But if the difficulties in the way of introducing Chicago dressed beef into the eastern market in the winter had been great, those confronting its introduction in the summer by means of the refrigerator cars were immensely greater. To all those before encountered were now added new ones with the railroads. They were equipped to handle live stock. They had an abundance of cars for shipping cattle. But they had no refrigerator cars, and they would not have any. They doubted their value. They were not organized to run them and were skeptical about their ability to do it. Such cars must be kept immaculately clean. Any speck of decay would make them worse than worthless by tainting and thus destroying the beef they carried. The older roads running most directly to the East were particularly averse to having anything whatever to do with the refrigerator car.
