Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from The Princeton Seminary Bulletin, 1989, Vol. 10 Devotional manuals advocated the imitation of Christ on the basis of the scriptural statement that human beings were created in the image of God. If humanity was made in God's image, they reasoned, the actualization of human nature lies in developing this similarity to the divine. Likeness to God was lost in the sin of Adam and Eve, however, so that all that remains is the faint image. Nevertheless, the image is built in, indestructible, a life long characteristic of human beings. Thus, although the image of God can not be effaced, it cannot be developed without divine help because of its badly warped condition. Patristic authors like Athanasius and Gregory of Nyssa used the image of a damaged painting to describe the state of the image in sinful humanity; Christ, because of his love for humanity, became himself an image of the invisible God.<sup>2</sup> Christ revealed, in living flesh.
