Subject: Block grants -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 receive purchase of a care subsidy to attend our program. I have 31 years experience in the childcare and early education field. I am not a policy wizard. I do a lot of child advocacy, but I am the person who, for 31 years, on a daily basis, has been in the place where the policies meet the people. What I propose to do today is give you my point of view on three points that are critical for children zero to five and then the fourth thing is to give you my perspective as a citizen, taxpayer, and voter on how these programs look to an insider, somebody with a birds eye view of what happens on a daily basis. The first point that I want to talk about is school readiness and quality childcare and early education. The second is parental choice and equitable access to quality programs. The third is cost as it relates to workforce, facilities, and educational programming, and then the fourth will be my perspective. School readiness and quality: All the recent findings in brain development research tell us that the first year of life is the most critical. There are connections that are made in the brain during that year that support language and literacy, math and science, social skills, emotional development, and a sense of oneself as a learner. I really do not understand why it is that, at the age of 18, we can understand that a mind is a terrible thing to waste, is a statement that applies, but we do not seem to be able to relate it at eight months....
