By Lere O Shakunle

Outskirts Press, United States, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .TRANSFIGURAL MATHEMATICS (TfM) is a new kind of mathematics which is representative of Nature and natural processes as a flowform of one in the other. Unlike classical mathematics which is fundamentally discrete and about models and modern mathematics which tries to flow but ends up being discrete among its members such that both end up representing purely theoretical setting, in transfigural mathematics everything flows. What results is the representation of the natural within the theoretical setting and the theoretical within the natural setting. The name, Transfigural Mathematics originated from transfigural which originates from Trans = across, over, beyond and figure = a shape, form, figure from which we have Transfigure = change the form of, to which is added figural = consisting of or forming figures. From these follows that we have transfigural which is, transfigural = trans figure figural as the change of form across, through and beyond. TfM treats both numerical and logic forms and geometric figures as open dynamic flow-forms permeated by space, not closed-off entities that either occupy or are confined by space . Correspondingly, these figures cannot be...
