By The Author, 2017. Hardcover. Condition: New. 1st Edition. 64 pages. Pictorial hardcover published without a dust jacket. 8.75" x 11.25". SIGNED BY THE AUTHOR. A detailed study of the .41 short rimfire derringer & revolver cartridge that was a very popular caliber used for personal protection during the old west. This study attempts to finally put to rest the inaccurate rudimentary tests and fundamentally bias opinions that have labeled this historical round ineffective during the period of use. The study includes historical accounts and detailed research of gun manufacturing firms that exposes their manufacturing techniques to maximize the effects of this very early cartridge round. Including an honest field test of the original black powder load performance. With in-depth detail as to what changes took place in the industry and how those changes affected the derringer type firearm. Inside are: *Total production estimates of each known firm that manufactured a .41 caliber derringer single and double shot. *A detailed account of the changes that occurred in the firearms industry from black powder to semi-smokeless and finally to a new era of smokeless powder. *A solid list of Manufactures and their variations. *A detailed accounting of a very historical shooting using a .41 rimfire short pistol and the ultimate result. *An accurate field test with the original black powder .41 short rimfire. *Over 50 photographs, patent information, and charts with antique firearm specifications. An outstanding new book. Signed by Author(s).
