Wherever a local name is known he has given it, but has not thought it advisable to follow the usage of those who, failing to find a local name, give a free translation of the scientific one in lieu thereof; when no local name is known for a plant it is as well that the public should understand and use the scientific name, which has the advantage of being the one used by all nationalities. The numerous notes on the properties and uses of the plants are a feature the compiler feels sure will be appreciated by a large number of persons, especially by those who take a utilitarian view of them; all of which have been extracted from the best authorities on the subject, and may therefore be relied upon as correct. The classification and nomenclature is that of Bentham and Hooker s Genera Plantarum, but where plants have been known in our gardens by other names, these are given in parentheses. Although a number of the plants are indigenous to more than one country - some, indeed, having a world-wide...
