M: With Extracts From Some of His Most Interesting Letters; To Which Is Added, a Brief Memoir of Mrs. Pearce God, which somehow, he knew not how, pre-v served him in most instances from carrying his wicked inclinations into practice, he sup posed he should have been utterly ruined. At times he was under strong convictions, which rendered him miserable; but at other times they subsided; and then he would re turn with eagerness to his sinful pursuits. When about fifteen years old he was sent by his father to inquire after the welfare of a per son in the neighbourhood, in dying circum stances, who, though before his departure he was in a happy state of mind, yet at that tith was sinking into deep despair. While in the room of the dying man, he heard him cry out with inexpressible agony of Spirit, I am damned for ever! These awful words pierced his soul;...
