By John Burroughs

Forgotten Books, 2017. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Last Harvest Mom? Of the papers garnered here were written after fourscore years after the heat and urge of the day and are the fruit of a long life of observation and meditation. The author's abiding interest in Emerson is shown in his close and eager study of the Journals during these later years. He hungered for every thing that concerned the Concord Sage, who had been one of the most potent influences in his life. Although he could discern ?ies in the Emersonian amber, he could not brook slight or indifference toward Emerson in the youth of to-day. Whatever ?aws he himself detected, he well knew that Emerson would always rest secure on the pedestal where long ago he placed him. Likewise with Thoreau: If shortcomings were to be pointed out in this favorite, he wished to be the one to do it. And so, before taking Thoreau to task for certain inaccuracies, he takes Lowell to task for criticizing Thoreau. He then proceeds, not without evident satisfaction, to call attention to Thoreau's slips as an...
