I have heard of a duckling, which, to the surprize of a grave family, waddled from its nest with a long serpentine tail instead of its natural rump. This was. readily resolved into a fright-the mother-duck took, at finding, when it went once to lay, a snake coiled up in the nest, as was a real fact. I consulted the learned, but found the doctrine of terror and fancy to tally exploded. I then consulted the Memoirs of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Brobditig nag; and, to my inexpressible fatisfaction, found that the opinion of that illustrious body coincided with my own: so I put down this uncommon accident as no more than a Relplum Scalath, or, in the modern phrase, a lusus....
