An All-American Spiral into an outlaws life. . . Jason Broaduc lives his life as part of a brotherhood. A High School football star and Marine Corps war veteran decorated for heroism, he has returned to life in Paris, Tennessee working as a State Trooper. When all of this is taken away in an instant, how will he react What will he have to do to survive in a world where no one will accept him The answer may lie in a different kind of brotherhood. . . and a lifestyle he would never have imagined. Jason has no one in his life. An only child whose mother died when he was young, he was raised by his father, who died when Jason was 20 years old. Now at the ripe old age of 24, he finds himself clinging to the last remnants of brotherhood he can find: his old friends from the Marine Corps, and his co-workers in the Tennessee Highway Patrol. There has always been a team around him, and he enjoyed belonging to something bigger than himself. His instincts to protect those close to him and serve the greater good provide all the satisfaction he could ever want in life. When football is over, the Marine Corps is over, and a series of violent flashbacks from his final epic battle in Iraq cost him his career in the Highway Patrol, he is alone in the world and tortured by demons from his past. No home, no money, and no way to earn a living compel Jason to seek a new life. He embarks on a whirlwind motorcycle trip that lands him alternately in jail, then in a...
