Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Organization of the Public Debt and a Plan: For the Relief of the Treasury Groundless alarms about the debt. Absurdity of the cry of insolvency. The debt assumed at its highest possible amount. Scale of liquidation. Means of payment. Ample resources. False theory of the sub-treasury exploded. Errors of negotiation. A financial syllogism. The practical repudiation of our national economy. Nature and use of a public debt. A milliner s assortment of stocks. The organization of the debt. Annuities. An auxiliary currency. The sale of opinions. Dangers of the banking scheme. Gold the inevitable measure. Means of resumption of specie payments. The speculation in gold, and the speculators. Summary of measures. The two sides of the account. The nation is oppressed and alarmed by apprehensions of a debt of some thousands of millions of dollars. It is affected by the cry, and by fears, of insolvency. It can feel but little confidence in its fiscal managers who manifest no capacity to devise measures that do not threaten positive evils, while promising doubtful relief Such is our present condition. It is the object of the writer to show that, whatever may be the debt of the nation, alarm and apprehension concerning it are without just grounds; that the bruited insolvency which disturbs our fancy is utterly a fiction; that the helplessness of the treasury management does not arise from any insuperable difficulty in our circumstances, but from a false theory of the debt entertained by those to whom it is intrusted; and that the evils with which they threaten the country, by fastening upon it an irredeemable paper currency, are far more serious in their...
