Brand New Book. Excerpt from Aeneid, II: A Translation 21. In full view of Troy lies Tenedos, an island well known to fame, rich in all manner of wealth while the kingdom of Priam stood, now a bay merely and a treacherous roadstead for ships. To this island they put out and hide on its desert shores. We thought that they had departed and made for Mycenae, availing themselves of the wind. Then all Teucria casts off the grief that had endured so long. The gates are flung wide open: pleasant is it to go forth and see the Doric camp and the places they have left and the deserted shore. Here was encamped the band of the Dolopes; here the fierce Achilles pitched his tent; here was the fleet drawn up; here they were wont to engage us. Some gaze in amazement at the baneful offering to the virgin Goddess Minerva, and wonder at the vast size of the horse; and Thymoetes first strongly urges that it be brought within...
