Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from A Tribute to the Memory of Sergeant Abraham B. Savery: Of Co; I, Massachusetts Seventh Regiment, Died Dec, 16, 1863 We are gathered to-day in the discharge of a mournful duty. No more fitting words for us, could be found in all the precious Bible than David's lament at the burial of Jonathan more appropriate to the occasion which convenes us today. Spoken originally at the grave of a soldier, by the soldier-king of Israel, they have a singular aptness now. David, the militant man of God, was called to bury his beloved friend. This older son of Saul was a princely man, worthy of the love of such a kingly soul as the noblest son of Judah - their affection was mutual, brave and undying. Their souls were knit together in the enduring bonds of love. No wonder then as the messenger from the battle-field came to tell of the death of Jonathan that the Hebrew King rent his clothes, mourned, fasted and wept. No wonder in pronouncing his eulogy he uttered words of radiance and sorrow, at once the sweetest and the saddest that ever fell from human lips. I am. Distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan. Very pleasant hast thou been unto me thy love was wonderful - passing the love of woman. Oh, Jonathan, thou and thy kingly father wert swifter than eagles, stronger than lions, lovely and pleasant in thy lives, and in death not divided. Then his grief became so great that he apostrophized nature Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you, nor fields of till it not in Gath, publish it not in...
