XV IN THE WILDS the sun was now up, continues the diary on April 16, 1908, and in a half hour Bernaldino began to halloo and tell who he was and with whom he came. He got out near where the first house was, but on going up to the place found no one there. We made no attempt to see anyone at the next place we passed, for it was there that the soldiers had done their burning; the place is called Alipaiyan, and in a grove of palms. In an hour we drew up to a place where we could see boothlike structures high up on poles about a half mile from our left. Presently we beheld people scurrying away, but after much hallooing Bernaldino succeeded in halting two. He went to where they were, and after a short talk came back to the river with them following behind. I took them for women at first, due partly to their feminine features, light build, their walk, and to the way they did their hair in a knot at the back of the head. But on a nearer view I found them to be young men; each had a bow and some arrows in one hand, and in the other some fresh hog meat strung in small pieces on bejuco. They had just come in from an early morning s hunt. Bernaldino had them to wade out to the boat where I...
