Excerpt from Little Tree Farms Year Book, 1923 Nothing thrives in the teeth of the wind. Crops are blighted, orchards lose their buds or fruit, animals shiver, human beings decide to give up the play or work they were doing and go indoors. In summer the dust and pollens drive into one's eyes; in winter the snow drifts high and the storm cuts deep. An exposed house or stable needs fifty percent more fuel, and even then creaks and sounds of discomfort. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
