Excerpt: .On the 2d of April 1820, this theatre was entirely destroyed by fire, together with nearly all the library, music, dresses and scenery. It was supposed to have been the work of an incendiary, as the company was at that time in Baltimore, and no performance had taken place in it for several days. In consequence of this unfortunate occurrence, the managers were compelled to resort to the Olympic Theatre, where they performed for two winters, while the new building, which at present occupies the site of the old one, was in progress. In the summer of 1811, there was a small theatre opened in Apollo street, in Southwark, between Fourth and Fifth streets, in which several members of the Chestnut street company performed for a short time. About the year 1821, a building in Prune street, opposite to the prison, was converted into a theatre, where dramatic performances were exhibited during the winter season. A summer theatre was also in operation in the Tivoli Garden, on the north side of Market street, near Broad street. This was converted into a circus in 1825, and subsequently altered to a theatre again. A summer theatre was also erected about the same time, in Vauxhall Garden, on Broad street, between Chestnut and Walnut streets, which was of short duration, and with the foregoing is to be placed among the reminiscences of our theatrical history. Chestnut Street Theatre. The principal front of this building is on Chestnut..
