Next, we need to ensure that we are offering a well-rounded curriculum that prepares students to be engaged citizens who understand and appreciate the world around them, but also have the academic skills to succeed in college and the workforce. Our students must have the best possible teachers and academic leaders, and those teachers, principals, and superintendents should have the support they need to do their jobs with excellence. Next, we must safeguard the rights of students with disabilities and ensure that they have every opportunity to succeed academically. Next, we must make sure that we are focusing on all the needs of Americas students, all the needs, including their need for good health, nutrition, and physical fitness. And finally, we need to ensure that the policies we write into law are flexible enough to meet the needs of diverse students and schools, including rural schools, but consistent enough...
