Coptales, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .In the 1950s, Chicago was a great railroad center, and its Proviso yard was the largest in the world, made up of nine freight yards--each a mile long with sixty tracks. Times were hard in the Eisenhower Fifties. Jobs for unskilled people like me were few and far between, and I had a young family to consider. When I heard the railroad police would pay me eighty dollars a month more than I was getting, I had to take it on. Looking back, it surprises me that I lived through it all: the arrests, the fights, the gun play, arson, and even a brush with the mafia. Even more dangerous were the men so anxious to wear a badge and carry a gun, they d work the job for nothing. All of this is true. Walk with me down the tracks and I ll show you what it was like to the be the Last of the Railroad Police. About the Author Carl Moen has been a truck driver, stockbroker, cab driver, coffee roaster, painter, insurance salesman, locomotive fireman, state representative, fireman, retail store detective, and now an author. He is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. These days, he makes his home in Florida.
