Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Down-Easters, C. C. C, Vol. 2 of 2 Such was the terrible letteri such the very words of a part which fell upon me, with a power which no language can describe. And yet, I do be iieve I showed no emotion before the girl who brought me the message of death - I mean what I say - the message of death I believe too that I spoke in my usual voice, and I know that I did not shed a tear, and that I have not shed a tear since - I hope never to shed one while I breathe, for the perfidy of that wo man. It was not - oh no l - it was not the losing a marriage with her, it was not even the losing of her heart, for I could have borne both, I believe, with a smile, if she had treated me as I deserve to be treat ed by those I love - no - no - it was neither - it was the losing of my faith in her that I was ready to wor ship - and now I remember a passage in her letter which I had forgotten before I know that you love me, said she. This will be a terrible blow, for you had set up an image in your heart for worship - and so I had! And she broke that image to pieces; and with it, every hope I had on earth, for every hope I had on earth was connected in some way or other with my belief in her exalted virtue, her generosity, and her truth.
