Excerpt from A Biographical History of Nodaway and Atchison Counties, Missouri: Compendium of National Biography The section of Missouri comprised within the limits of this volume has sustained within its confines men who have been prominent in the history of the State, and even the nation. For half a century. The annals teem with the records of strong and noble manhood, and, as Sumner has said. The true grandeur of nations is in those qualities which constitute the greatness of the individual. The final causes which shape the fortunes of individuals and the destinies of States are often the same. They are usually remote and obscure. And their influence scarcely perceived until manifestly declared by results. That nation is the greatest which produces the greatest and most manly men and faithful women; and the intrinsic safety of a community depends not so much upon methods as upon that true and normal development from the deep resources of which proceeds all that is precious and permanent in life. But such a result may not consciously be contemplated by the actors in the great social drama. Pursuing each his personal good by exalted means, they work out as a logical result.
