

The Trouble with Tom: In Which Five Gallant Old Men Flout the Law

By Eunice Banks

Outskirts Press. Paperback. Condition: New. 146 pages. Dimensions: 7.8in. x 5.0in. x 0.4in. A Delightful Tale of Turkeys and Tribulations A rogue turkey is making life miserable for the residents of Whisper Wood, an idyllic retirement community nestled in the Sierra Nevada Foothills. Feisty and always hungry, the bird is constantly asserting his right to respect. Ripping screen doors. Devouring heirloom roses. Swiping newspapers. And that's just for starters. A slow moving bureaucracy and onerous regulations stymie neighbors' efforts to rid themselves of their uninvited feathered friend. Now, five men in their golden years will conspire to break the law and return the streets to peck-free safety. There's Captain H., a reluctant leader whose wife is an impetuous mischief maker; Chester Jacques, a widower who still talks things over with his wife; Buford Onyx, who claims to be retired CIA; Ernest Trauts, a brawny, mustachioed character, who vows revenge for his gobbled-up roses; and Jay Beasley, whose wife is one of the turkeys' few defenders. But as they soon discover, getting rid of the bird is no easy task. In the process, each will realize something about himself that will leave him forever changed. Part modern day range war, part kidnapping and part...
