Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Anthrotourist: An Improvised Journey Through Latin America is the story of one anthrotourist s approach to understand the world around him by learning about the various cultures that inhabit Latin America. Throughout the book, the reader will get insight into the thoughts of not only the people groups of whom the author meets during his travels, but the reader will also get a glimpse into the mindset of the author himself as he attempts to articulate his observations throughout his travels from Honduras to Colombia over the course of three months. According to the author, being an anthrotourist is about leaving your own culture and preconceived notions behind so that you can experience someone else s way of life. It s the constant desire that grows deep in your soul that drives you to want to understand the world around you and the people who inhabit it. It s a window into the lives of people who see life with a different perspective and different pair of eyes. In this extraordinarily insightful, wide-ranging work of ethnographic observations and adventure, Jason Old takes us on an improvised journey through Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, and Colombia, highlighting the unique culture groups, the current political and economic climate, and just about everything in between. Anthrotourist: An Improvised Journey Through Latin America presents the reader with a fresh perspective on the art of travel by offering the reader a definition of what it is to be an anthrotourist and to be a part of what the author refers to as anthrotourism.
