Forgotten Books, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from A Trip to Chicago: What I Saw, What I Heard, What I Thought IN Spinning a yarn about my Trip to Chicago, I don t pretend to have made any scientific discoveries, or to have met with any thrilling adventures; but from Start to Finish I just had a real good time; and in asking you, dear reader, to Spend a little while with me in going over the ground again, I trust I shall be able to impart to you some of the pleasure I have myself experienced. I shall not trouble you with any of the business side of my journey, but it will simplify matters if I tell you in a few words why I went. There exists in Canada, and in the United States, a Fraternal Society, which, besides giving sick benefits to its members, insures their lives in sums of from 100 to 1000; the whole business being worked by, and through, its members on lines modelled after the tenets of Freemasonry. This society is called the Independent Order of Foresters; it numbers over seventy thousand members across the Atlantic, and a branch has lately been started in Great Britain. The Supreme Court meets every two years, and in 1893 it met at Chicago. I was chosen one of fifteen delegates to re present England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, as members of the Supreme Court. As the next meeting of the Supreme Court will be held in 1895, in London, you will probably hear more of this wonderful Order. It had been arranged that most of us should go out together; for as it was the first time this country had been represented, great...
