Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Letters of Mrs. Elizabeth Montagu, Vol. 2: With Some of the Letters of Her Correspondents Learned, and thirst of the rich, has no cure, no, nor no abatement. Hope is a vagabond that prefers begging from place to place, and gathering morsels, to living at home on fair means with content; it is a vagabond without an honest calling or an abiding place; it cheats us of the present good, and makes beggars of those for tune has made princes; what have we, who are here but for to-day, to do with the eternal promises for to morrow? Get thee gone from rte, thou restless guest, that cannot live with content upon possession! Leave me content for my companion, and I will not ask thee to come as a ?atterer; take fear along with thee, as fanciful a creature as thysel, who destroys what is real with a more painful deceit than thou buildest what is but imaginary; each are equally enemies to content. I have more compassion for those who fear to be misera ble, than for such as are impatient to be happy; exam ples of misery are to be met with, but of absolute hap piness none such as have overcome those intruders of quiet, hope, and fear, are the nearest to happiness; they have reached content. I have spent some anxious hours sincl parted with your Grace in fear, some times of not seeing you again for a twelvemonth, which gave me a heavy depression of heart; at o ther times, in a nearer hope of seeing you, I was in an impertinent elevation of spirits. Now, had expectation stood still and quiet, swift-footed time had brought...
