After a cautious inquiry Sir Edward comes to the conclusion that Mr. Jewett is the proper person to carry on the affairs of the company, and asks for him the cordial support of those interested. A memorandum of understanding was made between them, which is quite too long for insertion here, but was submitted for the approval of the bond and stockholders, providing for cooperative action between them and the receiver for the purpose of avoiding a foreclosure. A Meeting of the bondholders of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company was held in New York September 29th, for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee appointed to purchase the road--the essential portions of which have already appeared in this Review. Another objection has appeared to the proposed reorganization, and seems to have come from F. C. Brewster, of Philadelphia--the meeting being notified that Judge Shipman, of the United States Circuit Court, had granted an order to show cause why the proceedings should not be set aside on his petition. A board of directors was elected, consisting of Edwin M. Lewis, John N. Hutchinson, C. B. Wright, Charlemagne Tower, and J. Fraley Smith, Philadelphia; John Livingston, New York; J. K. Morrhead, George W. Cass, and Joseph Dilworth, Pittsburgh; George Stark and B. P. Cheney, Boston; John M. Dennison, Baltimore; and Frederick Billings, Vermont. 148 Items. Nov, There was a conference held in Newark, N....
