

Exploring Near Space: Scientific Ballooning and the Columbia Scientific Balloon Facility

By Dr. Henry C. Dethloff Ph. D.

Createspace. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 446 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.0in. Scientific Ballooning and the Columbia Scientific Balloon Facility is the product of a NASA Historical Research Project on the History of Space and Earth Sciences with oversight of the NASA History Program Office. The work focuses on the post World War II era and the development of stratospheric balloons capable of lofting 8,000 pounds or more of scientific instruments to altitudes in excess of 120,000 feet for extended periods to enable the study of Earth's atmospheric and near space environment. It is a study of the design, engineering, the science, and the people, and of the international cooperation that has made this critical scientific investigation of Earth's near space environment possible. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.

Reviews

This publication may be really worth a go through, and a lot better than other. It really is full of knowledge and wisdom. It's been printed in an exceptionally easy way in fact it is simply after I finished reading this publication by which basically modified me, affect the way I really believe.

-- Troy Dietrich DDS

Undoubtedly, this is the best work by any author. It is really simplified but shocks within the 50% in the publication. It's been written in an extremely straightforward way and is particularly just following I finished reading this publication by which basically altered me, modify the way in my opinion.

-- Vivianne Dietrich
