APH Publishing Corporation, 2006. Hardcover. Condition: New. First edition. The Nature has devised methods to provide clean air, Water and other Natural resources to the human beings. However, the greed of man and his endeavors of unsustainable growth and development have caused an irreparable deterioration in the quality of air, water, Soil and other natural resources. Today the cry of Pollution is heard from, all the nooks and corner of the globe and pollution has become a major threat to the the very existence of mankind on this earth. It is the major challenge of our times. Determination of desirable versus undesirable effects of an environmentally altering activity is very difficult and is a highly controversial process. The nature of tragedy as the philosopher Hegel pointed out long is the conflict not between right and wrong but between right and right. Although finding solution is difficult and controversial, yet it must be attempted to achieve better life. It is heartening to note that a global awareness has been generated about the Environmental pollution. The people all around the world are now pinning their hopes on the matured WISDOM of the Leaders of world who are to congregate at the Earth Summit with a need to examine the global problems and to combat them. The problems of Environments both nationality and globally are massive and formidable. We all know that the Earth Summit is being held in the middle of this year at Riode Janerio (Brazil). The major problems before the Earth Summit are those of climate changes and of biodiversity. Last October, a draft to be presented at the Earth Summit on Biodiversity was prepared. It is remarkable because at no time in human History certainly in the past 250 years, when Industrialization of the world began, there was such...
