By Rev James S Jones

Forgotten Books, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Life of Andrew Johnson, Seventeenth President of the United States Nested among the foothills of the western side of the Great Smoky Mountains, which mark the boundary-line between Tennessee and North Carolina, lies the town of Greeneville, memorable by its association with many men whose names have become landmarks in American history. From this vicinity went some of those liberty-loving heroes who, under the leadership of James Robertson and John Sevier, won the battle at King s Mountain, and turned the tide of the American Revolution, which gave independence to tho struggling Colonies. Here, too, for a time lived Benjamin Lundy, whom Horace Greeley in his Great American Conflict declares to have been the pioneer of direct and distinctive anti-slavery movements in America. Many who lived before him and contemporary with him were Abolitionists. But he was the first of our countrymen who devoted his life and all his powers exclusively to the cause of the slave.
