BiblioLife. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 100 pages. Dimensions: 7.9in. x 4.9in. x 0.4in. Ga. PREFACE. ANY one who undertakes to write on a subject for the treatment of which he may be supposed to be unprepared, by reason of a preoccupation of his time and thoughts in another direction, must expect that the undertaking will be generally regarded with distrust, and that the execution of it will be closely criticized by those whose province he may seem to invade. Feeling this to be my case in publishing, after the devotion of many years of my life to mathematics and physical science, a Translation, with annotations, of the Epistle of St Paul to the Romans, perhaps the most difficult portion of the New Testament, I beg, in order to extenuate the presumption with which I may appear to be chargeable, to submit the following statement of the circumstances under which I have been induced to prosecute the work, and my reasons for publishing it at this juncture. My attention was first directed specially to the Greek of the New Testament in the year 1823, when I was an undergraduate of Trinity College. It was the custom of the College to set one of the Gospels, or the Acts of the Apostles, as a subject for the reading of men of the second year, although the Previous Examination had not at that time been instituted.
