Excerpt from The President's Message and the Recognition of the Independence of the Republic of Cuba: Speech of Hon. F. M. Cockrell, of Missouri, in the Senate of the United States, April 19 and 20, 1898 Mr. Cockrell. No; and they never will, either. Mr. Hale. No; I do not think so. Mr. Cockrell. When we had a Democratic President, elected by Democratic votes, and he undertook to pursue a policy which I believed was repugnant to the doctrines of the party, to the best principles of our system of government, and to the interests of the people, I did not appeal to anybody to stand by the President and follow his policy; that he was the leader of the party and we must sustain him. No, sir: I repudiated him on that question. Mr. Wilson. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry The Presiding Officer. The Senator from Washington will state his parliamentary inquiry. Mr. Wilson. I am afraid my amendment is going to be lost. The Presiding Officer. The Senator from Missouri has the floor. Mr. Hale. The Senator from Missouri did not; but if the Senator had believed as we believed yesterday, that the President was right, he would have appealed to his associates to stand by him and they would have stood by him. The Senator did not believe under the conditions he has described, that the President was right, although he had helped to elect him. We believed the President was right - Mr. Cockrell. Oh, I have no doubt about that. Mr. Hale. And are very glad we came out of that triumphant, with the party arrayed in a solid line. Mr. Cockrell. This is a very...
