Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Way of Salvation: A Sermon Delivered at Morris-Town, New Jersey, February 8, 1829 One thing has been established, in the Author's view, by the delivery of this discourse, as well as by a very frequent and full, but temperate, exhibition of the leading-doctrines presented in it - that injury is not done in a revival by a full exhibition of God's plan of saving men according to his sovereign will and pleasure. No doctrine during the revival in this place has been more fully presented, than that God is a sovereign in the dispensation of his favours; - that the sinner has on him no claim - that he is wholly dependent for mercy -and that if God interpose not, he must die. At the same time, the truth has been as uniformly presented, that the obligation of the sinner is not measured by the favours he hopes to obtain. The duty of an immediate and unqualified surrender into his hands - of a direct and eternal renunciation of all acts of rebellion - of an instantaneous submission to all the terms and requirements of the Gospel, and of an entire committing of all the interests of the soul to the hands of the God long hated, and of the Redeemer long set at nought and contemned. Has been urged with all the ability. That has been vouchsafed. By the Divine blessing on this united presentation of the doctrines of grace, and of man's obligation, so far as the Author of this discourse has had opportunity of knowing, most happy results have followed. The convicted sinner has felt the necessity of casting...
