Excerpt from Wheels of Time But, Deryck, she had exclaimed in dismay, waving her hands at him, full of a great mass of freshly gathered roses, I could not possibly sit down and dine with you in a room where your horrible patients have sat waiting for hours, leaving behind them the germs of all their nasty, infectious diseases! The doctor caught the little hands, roses and all, and held them against his breast, looking down into her face with laughing eyes. Flower, he said, my lovely, fragrant Flower! Am I doing a foolish thing in attempting to transplant you into the soil of busy London life? Should I not do better if I left you in your rose-garden? Ah, well, it is too late to ask that now; I can't leave Wimpole Street, and his voice, always deep, suddenly thrilled to a deeper depth; a tenderness of strong passion quivered in it I can't live without you. He let go her hands and framed her upturned face in his strong, brown fingers. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
