Excerpt from History of the Congressional Cemetery: December 6, 1906; Presented by Mr. Burkett and Ordered to Be Printed With Illustrations; To Accompany Report on H. R. 5972 A great inconvenience has long been experienced by the citizens residing in the eastern portion of the city for want of a suitable place for a burying ground. It is well known that the one at the northeast boundary of the city, now ocen pied as such, is a low and watery situation and very unfit for a place of inter ment. This piece Of ground is thought equal to any that can be had in the city for that purpose.
