Am I responsible for his future success as a reader, by having failed to discover his peculiar condition and needs? Or does the fault lie in his memory or in his eyes? Some people are called color blind because they cannot distinguish difference between colors. May not something of the same kind apply in the matter of reading? The child sees words, knows they are words, but cannot tell the difference between them. Why is it that some persons excel in writing or drawing, others in mathematics or music, and others in reading? Is it not because all have not the same gifts? Now, I am not seeking to find a mantle large enough to cover my failures as a teacher, neither do I wish to shirk any responsibility that ought to rest upon me, for I feel a conscientious desire to do the most and the best possible, for every child placed under my charge. But how may I know when my whole duty has been done, and where my responsibility ends? S. P. Bennett. It is the aim of the teacher in teaching reading to get the children to read as they talk, and in order to accomplish this in any degree, it is necessary that the children feel the force and the meaning of the words they read, as they do with the words they use when they talk. The word uttered when reading should be made to live,...
