His business partner, on the other hand, is a little unconventional. DeDe is an artificially intelligent computer, but she is more like a friend to Paul. DeDe helps him streamline his life and complete his work locating apocalyptic cults and dangerous individuals that aren't yet on the government's radar. Paul and DeDe may spend the day searching for cults, but a cult is also searching for them. The members of the Guild believe the end of the world is near, and they also believe that Paul and DeDe collectively pose a threat to their plans. When the two partners get too close to the Guild's operations, the cult goes on the offensive, and the pair have to go on the run! As Paul and DeDe try to adjust to life hiding from the cult, they both evolve in unexpected ways. Paul in particular must decide whether to embrace a new destiny or go back to his comfortable, normal life. With the help of their flying RV and their robot, Tinker, man and machine will have to work together to stop the world from ending.
