Forgotten Books, 2017. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Lectures on General Pathology: A Handbook for Practitioners and Students; Sections III-VI; The Pathology of Digestion, Respiration, Urinary Organs, and Animal Heat The appearance of this, the second volume of my lectures has been delayed - much against my wish - by my removal to Leipzig, and also by repeated and prolonged illness. I cannot, unfortunately, hide from myself that, in spite of this long delay, the book now concluded is still incomplete. An exposition of the pathology of the sense-organs and muscular movements will not be missed, for no one will have expected me to include them in these lectures yet one section, and a most important one moreover, has been omitted, - the pathology of the nervous system. No one can regret this more than myself; nor have I been wanting in efforts to supply the deficiency. I have again and again applied to those who at present are regarded as the most distinguished authorities on nervous pathology in this country, in the hope that some one of them might undertake this section of my lectures but nowhere has my request been favorably entertained. And not simply on personal grounds: I have been assured by all that a systematic exposition of the pathology of the nervous system is at the present moment impossible or at least impracticable. I am aware of course that such statements have only a relative value; yet this unanimity of the most competent judges has sufficed at any rate to deter me from attempting the thorough treatment of this portion of our science, not having at my command that most valuable aid of nervous pathology, -the regular observation of a large number of nervous...
