Brand New Book. Excerpt from Violet Lisle Will you forgive my presumption, Miss Violet? I have nothing to forgive, Mr. Jenkins; the love of so good and true a man as you must be an honor to any girl. The two speakers stood under the spreading branches of a great oak. Near by stood the ruins of Penarth Abbey, its ivy mantled walls gilded by the glowing rays of a warm autumn sun, and the long shadows cast by the famous Penarth oaks falling in fantastic shapes over its uneven contours. It was plain from the sketch-book in the girl's hand that she had been there with an artist's purpose. A glance at the man told that he was a curate a fact betrayed no less by his air than by his garb. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
