

Chronicles from a True Camper (Paperback)

By Phd James Jackson

Dog Ear Publishing, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .James P. Jackson has slept on the ground in all types of weather, indulging in his love of real outdoor camping. As he puts it, camping without wheels allows people to enjoy close encounters with the natural world: trees, birdsong, wildflowers, large and small wild creatures, and a feeling of kinship with all forms of natural life. In Chronicles from a True Camper, James eloquently describes some of the many adventures he s had while camping: - Hitchhiking from East St. Louis to the wilds of Minnesota with a teenaged pal, spending days exploring in a canoe on the eve of them serving in World War II. - Sleeping under the stars in a Utah desert during a summer break from college. - Buying his first canoe, an aluminum-skinned version that helped him to perfect the J stroke. - Gazing at the Milky Way from the shoreline of a lovely stream in the Ozarks. - Tackling whitewater rafting in Utah s Green River and following up with rafting into roiling waters of the Grand Canyon. - Backpacking in the wilds of Wyoming with...
