When you are a teenager, the whole world stands in front of you, just waiting to see what you are going to do with your life. I'm not talking just about what you want to do for work, I'm talking about the difference you are going to make! The choices you make today, will drastically influence the world you live in tomorrow. Now it's time to discover exactly how all this works, and why following these steps, and putting a plan into action, basically guarantees you success. Or does it? In Reaching The Peak, you are going to see exactly why your success is never certain, and what you can do to maximize the probability of success.
