Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 88: December, 30, 1926 To both class-leaders and members we say, in earnest advice Prepare your lessons by personal study. Come to class with knowledge to impart, even as you expect to receive. Develop the habit of searching out for yourselves; then the importance and interest of the subject will give you such love for it that you will find both joy and profit in studying the Scriptures with which the lessons are concerned. Become well versed in the things of God thus you will be numbered among the truly educated. That the man-child who came to be known as Jesus of Nazareth was born in Bethlehem of Judea, at the beginning of our current era, is a fact both generally accepted and thoroughly attested. His birth was unusual in many respects as we shall see; the few circumstances of record as to His childhood and youth Show Him to have been of high mentality and spiritual devoutness. Grown to manhood He became a teacher of recognised supremacy, so that His precepts aroused the wonder of the multitude, the envy of the schoolmen, and the hatred of many of the scribes, Pharisees, Sadducees, and rabbis, all reputed to be learned in the law. For brief account of these and other sects and cults existent among the Jews at the time of Christ's life in the ?esh see Jesus the Christ, pages 64-69.
