Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . A rogue satellite disappears off NSA s space radar and falls into Monterey Bay on the California coastline. The Agency s efforts to find the lost satellite are thwarted by a young oceanographer, Matt Cross and his wife, Lindy, a local television reporter, who watch the fiery landing from their honeymoon beach picnic and track it to its final resting place, five-hundred feet down in the Monterey Submarine Canyon. Bent on fame and fortune, they retrieve the satellite, examine it, and find an unfathomable object: a satellite sent back in time from our future. Revealing its contents to the American public in a historic record-setting-audience television report, they turn the world upside down and leave it with a life-or-death decision: assassinate a few innocent people or destroy the future of humanity. This fast-paced techno thriller leaves you breathless as you race through its pages searching for the verdict. Based on the Grandfather Paradox, it is not a fantasy but a realistic depiction of an event that could happen tomorrow. Fasten your seat belts and ready yourselves for the story of a lifetime.
