Intertwined in her narrative are stories of her familys missionary ancestors who served in both Malaya and China. Through personal and inspiring details she recounts how God brought her and Bobby together in marriage and missionary service, blessing their home with four precious children. Integrated throughout her story are many interesting descriptions of their missionary life in Southeast Asia. As readers follow the clear personal re-telling of this familys four generations of service for God they will exclaim with the author, Surely He Led All the Way!
